IEP Vs. Accommodations: Advancing Academic Success For Students With Disabilities Thursday, April 6 ~ 1:00-2:00pm (Eastern)

Once the live date has passed, this training will be available on demand.

Overview

Adults who require accommodations and are pursuing a college degree can often go through several cycles of vetting appropriate assistance, as the accommodations they now qualify for in college may be vastly different than what they received in high school. Compounding this issue is that faculty often don't know how to help students with disabilities. According to a 2014 article written in The Chronicle of Higher Education, many professors want to aid students but don't know what's appropriate.

In this webinar, attendees will learn how laws such as the American Disabilities Act prohibit discrimination and what constitutes reasonable accommodations. Participants will be provided with an overview of the rights and responsibilities of students and find out how to distinguish between services offered within the K-12 system versus a college setting. Some resources that instructors can use to aid a student's educational growth will also be explored. Ultimately, you will better understand how "disability" is defined in the American Disabilities Act and explore resources that can be used to aid student learning.

Objectives:

- Learn the difference between the Individual Education Plan and services offered within the university or college setting
- Understand the role of the Office of Disability Services
- Understand the importance of the American Disability Act and other similar laws within a college setting
- Explore apps that are appropriate for enhancing a student's learning
- Understand how a disability or impairment is defined by the American Disabilities Act
- Discuss how universities can be deemed as non-compliant

Speaker(s)

Dr. Janell Harvey

"Disabilities don't mean that students are incapable of learning. Educators and administrators, should raise their understanding of the Americans with Disabilities Act (ADA) and provide the tools necessary to ensure an academic environment that is conducive to all learning styles."

Dr. Janell Harvey began working on behalf of children in 2002 while leading a non-profit organization as its Executive Director. Since then, she has focused much of her research and volunteer time in areas that deal with students who are learning disabled and disadvantaged. Recently, she published an article in IGI Global that meta-analyzes a number of resources for students who are hearing impaired. She has also published articles and a book that deal with fund development.
